Burden

As major purchasers of drugs, Illinois hospitals are forced to bear a significant burden of the rising costs of big Pharma.

What is 340B?

340B, a federal program established in 1992, helps Illinois hospitals, federally qualified health centers, and other community care organizations navigate out-of-control drug costs and stretch scarce federal resources. By requiring pharmaceutical manufacturers participating in Medicaid to provide covered outpatient drugs to covered entities at reduced prices, hospitals, in turn, use the savings to reach more patients and provide comprehensive savings. It is an essential tool to retain low-cost access to care in communities across Illinois, and does not require any state taxpayer dollars.

Who is a 340B Covered Entity?

The 340B drug discount program was designed to support healthcare providers serving the most vulnerable patients. 340B covered entities include:

* DSH = Disproportionate Share Hospitals (hospitals serving a high percentage of Medicaid patients)

How 340B Impacts Illinois Communities

Illinois hospitals are anchor institutions in their communities, providing both economic vitality and access to healthcare. The 340B drug discount program allows hospitals—both urban and rural—to support important community health needs, including:

Providing low-cost access to prescription drugs;

Creating financial assistance programs for low-income patients; and

Supporting service lines, such as obstetrics or inpatient psychiatric care that meet high community needs, but require large financial commitments.

Why State Legislation is Needed Now

The Illinois Patient Access to 340B Pharmacy Protection Act will prohibit pharmaceutical manufacturers from prohibiting, restricting or interfering with a 340B covered entity that contracts with a local pharmacy to dispense medications acquired through the program.
